

THE KULLMAN FIRM
A PROFESSIONAL LAW CORPORATION

One Area of Practice.
One Focus.
Labor and Employment Law.

The events of recent weeks have involved great tragedy and turmoil within our country and several of the cities where we maintain offices. The horrific deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, Ahmaud Arbery, and many others have heralded the calls for action, for change, and for the recognition and elimination of deeply rooted problems and inequities within our country. The Kullman Firm is committed to and fully supports all efforts to achieve equality and a safe and just environment for all members of our society.

For several years, our firm has had the privilege of collaborating with Dillard University to sponsor and participate in a program for minorities entering law school at LSU, Tulane, Loyola, and Southern University in order to expand the pipeline of diverse talent in the legal profession and to help prepare the students for academic success in law school. We have recently obtained approval to name the program in honor of our recently deceased law partner, Henry P. Julien, II. As many of you know, Henry was deeply committed to the advancement of civil rights and equality. More importantly, he demonstrated his commitment throughout his career by fighting for the end of racial discrimination and barriers which unfairly impeded the ability of African Americans to advance and prosper. As a result, we feel it is entirely fitting that our law firm's program with Dillard bear his name going forward.

In further support of The Kullman Firm's commitment to advance diversity within the legal profession, the firm is establishing The Kullman Firm Scholarship to be awarded to a Dillard University graduate who will be attending law school in Louisiana. We will also continue our efforts to foster diversity within our firm, recognizing the need and our obligation to do so. Real change requires a consistent and concerted effort by all of us. As we move forward, we commit to being part of the solution.
